The DIMMER VIEW

by Max Goodwin

United States and the World Suffers for Our Policies

Offering the hypothesis that politicians are the world's greatest actors, we present as proof the announcement of Senator Robert Kennedy that he will seek the presidency of the United States.

There is nothing wrong with such a determination, but when Senator Kennedy positively states that he will support Senator Eugene McCarthy while opposing President Johnson's "perilous programs", he is kidding somebody.

It would take a lot of explaining to clarify this situation. How can a politician run against another without opposing him?

Since Kennedy is running, he's running against the Republican candidate. But, until then, he is running against both Democratic candidates. He is running against Johnson and against McCarthy.

Within the party — and outside it — is dissention. The Vietnam war, gold outflow, race riots, the Pueblo hijacking (which many people refer to as an "incident") student riots, prison riots, horrendous increases in crime, the threat of communist Cuba, strikes, foreign relations and foreign aid, inflation, and the relaxed attitude concerning law enforcement, are among the issues.

As a matter of comparison, look at France under the control of Gen. Charles deGaulle. Of course we in the United States are critical of him. But we are also critical of L. B. Johnson. The French may critize deGaulle, but they do not question his motives. They know that the general is doing what he thinks is best for France — not what is best for the United States.

In the U.S. where estates were earned by the sweat of the American brow, this wealth is seen dwindling as a result of world give-aways, inflation due to poor fiscal policies, loss of gold and silver standards, and welfare state-ism. It can hardly be believed that Mr. Johnson has only the best interests of the United States in mind when his actions are compared with those of Gen. deGaulle's.

This is not to say that the general's policies are good for the U.S. — but it gives Frenchmen the faith, trust and pride in their country that we desperately want to have in ours.

The free enterprise philosophy, basis of our democratic system rewards those who are industrious and intelligent. An American who worked hard, and accumulated, say $100,000, a few years back, now sees his estate becoming valueless. His faith in the administration and his country flags. With the results of the product of his toil gone, his support of almost any other ideology become stronger. Maybe communism is the ideology he can better understand under these conditions.

In this welter of wanton waste the turn away from the republican form of government seems rational to those who can find no fiscal protection. In France, they believe that deGaulle is trying to strengthen the franc. They also believe that he is motivated by strong patriotic considerations. DeGaulle is for France. The United States adminitration is for everybody else, it seems, but Americans.

As a case in point, the president will again demand a hike in income taxes which will be a penalty against U.S. citizens. He said last week that he would reduce spending. Taking him at his word, it will be interesting to see whether the reduced expenditure will be against foreign nations, some of which are enemies of ours, or against our own people. There is every reason to believe economic sanctions will be against Americans — and that world give-away programs will continue.

Malnutrition a Thing of the Past

Over one billion dollars come from American pockets annually to pay for fake medicines and treatments. The biggest bite is felt by those who needlessly purchase special foods and vitamins. How can an otherwise sophisticated public be so grossly victimized?

The answer, according to the California Medical Association takes us back to the turn of the century. At that time malnutrition was a real problem in the United States. Deficiency diseases were common, even in prosp rous areas. Then the first World War brought with it great strides in our understanding of illnesses caused by poor nutrition. Much was learned about the roles of vitamins, minerals, and protein in normal health and development. This flurry of new discoveries received wide, and sometimes lurid, publicity. In short order millions of Americans who had previously eaten pretty much what they liked became nutrition-minded.

At about the same time a gigantic wave of expansion hit our national agriculture, New methods of farming produced surpluses which cut into profits. Refrigeration made possible wider distribution, but still the surplus grew. To create expanding markets, our food producers developed new products in a variety of undreamed of before. Today's super-market is a kaleidoscope of changing shapes, sizes, colors, and contents of foods. As a product loses favor with the public, two new ones take its place. Aware of the consumer's growing interest in diet, large producers keep a sharp eye on the nutritional value of their new products. When a needed element is lost during processing, the food is enriched to replace it, often in greater quantity than existed in the original food. White bread commonly has Vitamin B added. Dairy foods are laced with Vitamins A and D. Processed fruits and juices are handled carefully to preserve their natural value and then often have Vitamin C added to make them even more nutritious.

Frozen foods can often be prepared at home in less water than is needed for the cooking of fresh produce. So, not only does freezing preserve the content of vitamins but it also enables more of these precious elements to reach the table. Modern foods, contrary to the claims of door-to-door vitamin peddlers, have not been robbed of their nutritional value. This should also make you doubt the need for exotic foods sold in "Health Food" stores at inflated prices.

Your physician may occasionally prescribe vitamins for the correction of some special problem, but don't let the fear of nutritional deficiency which may have been commonly fifty years ago mislead you today. Take to heart this statement by the U. S. Department of Health, "The American food supply is unsurpassed in volume, variety, and nutritional value. By patronizing various departments of a modern food store we can easily supply all of our nutritional needs. In fact, Americans have to go out of their way to avoid being well nourished. Deficiency dieseases which plagued our nation in the past are now almost unknown. Overweight has become a more common problem than underweight."

CHICKEN TEAM — Ben Houston, property manager of College Grove Industrial Park at 94 and College, at the west end of Lemon Grove, checks plans for new 12,000 square foot development. With him are Bill Richards, area director of Kentucky Fried Chicken Corporation for whom a new commissary is being built, and Robin Dean, sales representative for Coldwell Banker and Co. CB put the deal together. The commissary will serve the firm's 18 chicken outlets and 10 planned roast beef operations. (Les Herline Photo)

Kentucky Chicken Added To Industrial Area Growth

Construction is under way at College Grove Industrial Park for the 12,000 square feet Kentucky Fried Chicken Corp. commissary, according to Bill Richards, the firm's area director.

Coldwell, Banker's Sales representative Robin Dean represented all parties in arranging for a 15-year $150,000 Aetna loan on the one acre building site leased by Arthur and Mildred Houston.

Kentucky Fried Chicken's Richards pointed out the Nashville-based firm owns and operates its own outlets in the county and the Houston owned commissary is designed to accommodate the 14 operations currently open and the four more new Kentucky Fried locations scheduled for 1968 and 1969 plus the 10 contemplated Kentucky Roast Beef operations.

Richards said the Kentucky Fried Chicken program is running well ahead of forecast. "We're now doing about $4,500,000 annual sales and employ over 250 people," he said.

The College Grove Industrial Park facility represents the sixth location negotiated by our firm," Dean said.

The addition of four local franchisers who were so successful they sold out to the parent company and joined the national management team contributed to the fast growth, he said.

Local Students Are Named To Deans List

William A. Johnson of Lemon Grove and Joan E. Cressee of Spring Valley have been named to the Deans Honor List at the University of California, Davis.

Local Teacher Cited By Grade Teacher Magazine

Mrs. Joanne S. Julian, kindergarten teacher in the Lemon Avenue School, has been named one of the nation's outstanding early education teachers by the professional magazine, "Grade Teacher".

She is one of 180 women whose effectiveness in the classroom was described by Grade Teacher as an inspiration to educators at all grade levels.

Each of these outstanding teachers received an award plaque for her achievement.

The award winners were chosen after a survey of school systems throughout the country. Trendex, Inc., a national research organization, contacted school superintendents for preliminary recommendations which were submitted to the magaline.

Final selections were made by the editors after a detailed analysis of the nominees' teaching experiences and techniques.

All nominees were asked about their goals, problems, techniques and hopes in the field of early education.

"Whether new teachers or old-timers," said publisher Allen Raymond, "these outstanding teachers have in common a love affair with the job, a sense of adventure in the classroom, and an intense interest in and affection for young children."

Mrs. Julian came to the La Mesa-Spring Valley School District in 1958 to serve at Lemon Avenue School as a teacher of the trainable mentally retarded.

Mrs. Joanne S. Julian

In September, 1963, she accepted an assignment (also at Lemon Avenue) to teach kindergarten. Before coming to La Mesa Mrs. Julian taught kindergarten and preschool classes in Texas and Florida.

She is a graduate of Rice Institute in Houston and has done graduate work at the University of Miami and the University of Houston.

Mrs. Julian's husband is Dr. James L. Julian, professor of journalism at San Diego State College. The Julians have two children.

Youth Group Schedules Car Wash

The High School Youth Fellowship of the Lemon Grove First Congregational Church is having a Car Wash this Saturday, from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Bud Young's Standard Service Station, Palm and Imperial in Lemon Grove. The cost $1 donation.

Glenn Zick, the president of the group, said that the group's program includes a number of camping activities and that the young people felt an obligation to "earn their own way" on these outings whenever possible. They are currently planning a trip to Grand Canyon which will combine a service project with the Havasupai Indians with some "just plain old fun."

The youth group, with adult leadership from Mr. and Mrs. Roger Martin and Rev. Mike DeVore, meets Sunday evenings from 6:30 - 8:30. Rev. DeVore reported that the group is growing both in size and in depth of experience. He said that "this is where the action is for those who come. The kids really feel excited about what's happening."

The First Congregational Church, United Church of Christ, at 2770 Glebe rd. in Lemon Grove sponsors youth groups for young people from fourth grade through college.

State Chamber of Commerce Backs Summer Job Program

More than 100,000 California youths 16 to 21 years old will not find work during the summer unless something is done to remove the barriers to their employment. Approximately 25,000 of these youths live in areas that have been identified by the Department of Employment as poverty areas.

The Board of Directors of the California State Chamber of Commerce, beieving it is vita that these barriers are removed, has given unanimous endorsement to the governor's Summer Job Campaign Program.

In announcing the State Chamber"s endorsement, Genera Manager John T. Hay said "The State Chamber will work with the governor and all segments of business, labor and industry to help solve the problem of employment for California youth.

More than 100,000 young adults, 16 to 21 years old, looking for work is a major problem. No longer can a modern chamber be concerned solely with trade and economic development; we must now be involved in the humanities — in the total environment — helping to solve today's' urgent problems.

It is the role of modern-day business leaders to get involved in the solutions to problems affecting the basic issues of today."

In a letter to all California employers, Governor Reagan said he is completing plans to appoint a "Blue Ribbon Committee" to devise ways and means for overcoming barriers to summer employment of youth in the private sector.

The committee will work with business and industry to develop a summer job opportunity campaign ultilizing the skills, talents and abilities of California's younger workers. The governor asked all employers to work with him on a "California Summer Job Campaign."

Car Runs Over Boy, 4 In Driveway

Richard Aldama, 4 years old, of 2893 Orange pl., Lemon Grove was fatally injured Tuesday afternoon when he was run over by the family car in the driveway of their home.

The four-year old was pronounced dead on arrival at Grossmont Hospital at 5:52 p.m. His mother, Charlene had left the victim's 1½ year old sister Anita in the car while she was moving boxes into the house.

The tot hit the gear-shift lever and moved it out of the park position. The car rolled backwards, down the drive and over the boy.

The County Coroner's office said that the death is not chargable to the county traffic fatality list because it occurred on private property.

Scheidle Tosses Hat In Supervisor's Ring

City Councilman Harry Scheidle announced Wednesday that he will challenge County Supervisor Robert Dent in the June 4 election in the Third Supervisorial District.

Scheidle, 45, has represented the Third District for seven years. He said he is campaigning against Dent because the county must be put in motion by the same aggressive, bold and imaginative leadership responsible for development of today's Mission Bay Park, a city owned transit system, San Diego Transit, Metropolitan sewer systems, the Community Concourse, the Salk Institute, the University of California and the new Stadium.

Dent, 67, is seeking his fourth folr-year term. The district takes in the city of San Diego east from Park Boulevard including North Park, East San Diego, Allied Gardens, the College area, Lemon Grove, Spring Valley and parts of Southeast San Diego.

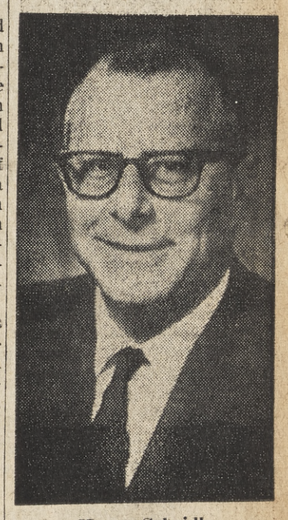

Scheidle, pointing to the dynamic growth of San Diego, during his seven years on the council, said the projects and programs he led were accomplished while lowering the city tax rate.

"I am convinced that the same energetic approach to same energetic approach to the County's problems can put the County in motion and lower the tax rate," said Scheidle.

Scheidle has proven to be a strong campaigner and vote getter in past city elections. In the 1965 city election he received 79,524 votes in winning re-election, more votes than any other councilman obtained in that election.

"Aggressive, energetic leadership in the County, in my opinion, is a must. It is one thing to recognize problems but that is not enough. The problems must be met and solved," said Scheidle.

In his announcement, made as he filed for the post at the County Registrar of Voters office, Scheidle said: "I have served vigorously and fill time on the city council for seven years. The progress in those seven years serve as my credentials. San Diego County must be put in motion by the same aggressive, bold, and imaginative methods. I feel that I can best serve our community by devoting my energies to the Board of Supervisors. Therefore I am filing as a candidate for Supervisor of the Third District of the County of San Diego."

Harry Scheidle

Scheidle was born in San Diego, educated in local schools and served in the U.S. Navy in World War II. A long time merchant and property owner in the North Park district, He is married and the father of two sons. He is a member of many organizations and has been honored by countless public service groups for his leadership and efforts.

Potluck Dinner Planned By Congregational

An exciting new dimension of churchmanship will be demonstrated in tonight's Planned Potluck Dinner at the First Congregational Church, United Church of Christ, 2770 Glebe rd., Lemon Grove. Set for 6:30 p.m., the supper will be open to all church members and neighborhood friends.

Featured in the evening program will be new songs and talent of national prominence. The program will be designed to present in an exciting way the denominational emphasis for the coming year. Also featured will be local talent and congregational participation. According to the Reverend Ernest M. Fowler, minister of the church, a musical setting of folk songs in which the whole congregation will participate will be an outstanding element in the presentation.

Other programs in the Lenten series at the Lemon Grove Church will include a sacrificial dinner Thursday, March 28 at the church. A very strong group involvement in the church's mission will be demonstrated.

The sermon topic in the 9 and 10:30 services this Sunday will be a continuation of the series on the main theme "Reconciliation".

State Cash Receipts Go Over Billion Mark

SACRAMENTO — The State's General Fund cash receipts for the first eight months of the 1967-68 fiscal year totaled $1,788-607,338, State Controller Houston I. Flournoy reported.

This is an increase of 47.1 percent compared to the same period a year ago. This rise is primarily due to legislation accelerating the payment of income and franchise taxes and increasing rates on certain revenue sources.

During February, the net borrowing of the General Fund was $108 million ($247 million was borrowed and repayments amounted to $139 million). The temporary loan balance on February 29, 1968, was $498 million.

Major revenue sources during the first eight months of the current fiscal year produced the following receipts:

Girl Scout Chatter

The Proverbial Girl Scout next door is moving.

She's the pig-tailed moppet in brown, off on an "Upside-down" discovery hike, trying to find out what lives under things.

Or she's the sharpest teenager in town, dashing from school to TV studio in her snappy green suit, prepared to take part in a youth forum on "New Careers in a New World."

She's a Girl Scout and she's on the move, becoming a woman on her own terms, the personal terms of "I'd Like to Be"

She may be seven or 17. Her interest can range from art to zoology. A Girl Scout's quest is limited only by the boundaries of the universe and her own imagination.

During the coming year, more than three million girls everywhere in the country will be exploring the world in terms of what they'd like to be.

Each girl's personal aspiration will determine her course, but all three million will base their explorations upon the unchanging ideals of character, condoct, patriotism, and service at the heart of the Scouting movement.

As they meet, work with and learn from the men and women of their communities who have achieved what they'd like to be, the girls will be eager — and admiring — novices.

In hospitals and art studios, banks, and laboratories, libraries, offices, and stores, Girl Scouts will visit the world of others — and search for the world of themselves.

So next time, don't look out the window or across the white picket fence for the Girl Scout next door. She's on the move — toward what she'd like to be.

Happy Birthday to her and the almost three and three quarter million members of Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. — a 56 year old organization that is always young.

High Cost Of Welfare Gets Sups. Cold Eye

SAN DIEGO (CNA) — Do some county welfare workers tend to promote welfare spending by liberal interpretation of welfare eligibility

Are there areas in the federal-state-county welfare funnel where a conservative county approach can cut the flow of welfare money?

Within the county's own welfare department, are there cuts possible that save money from the local source, the property tax rolls?

These are some of the questions the County Board of Supervisors would like answered. They have directed the administration office to explore the situation within the welfare department and the state-federal-county relationships.

The rising cost of welfare has been a chief frustration of the board because of its inability to do anything to control welfare spending. Only general relief is under the direct control of the board, and this amounts to four per cent of the total welfare spending in this county.

The gross cost of welfare in this county for the fiscal year 1967-68 is nearly $60 million. Nearly $20 million goes to families with dependent children.

Old age security, aid to disabled, administration, and other categories take the other two-thirds of the money.

Local property taxes pays only $10.5 million with the rest of the money coming from the state and federal governments. This means that welfare spending from property taxes amounts to about five per cent of the total.

Taxes levied by county districts from schools to fire departments to cities amount to nearly $200 million.

The lump of $60 million for welfare, nevertheless, looms large in the total county budget of $143 million, and even larger if the category is enlarged to include all public assistance. This adds another $9 million of medical and mental health program spending.

Supervisors asked for an investigation to include the present policies in the welfare department to see if a conservative approach is being used by social workers.

Biomedical Electronic Division Opens At Grossmont College

Grossmont College has announced a new biomedical electronic curriculum at a two-day conference, co-sponsored by the college, Institute of Electrical and Electronic Engineers and Minneapolis-Honeywell Company, March 19 and 20 at the college.

Leading area engineers joined doctors, educators, and hospital administrators in a critical analysis of the long overdue educational needs of modern medical establishments.

Dr. Duane Sutfin, manager of Minneapolis-Honeywell's Electronic Medical Systems Department, spoke on "Trends in Biomedical Electronics and Associated Engineering" at a special seminar Tuesday night in the College's Fine Arts Lecture Hall.

Dr. Sutfin received his doctorate in physiology from the State University of Iowa in 1956. Prior to joining Minneapolis-Honeywell as principal research scientist, he served on the faculties of the State University of Iowa and the University of Illinois in various capacities as research assistant, instructor and professor of physiology.

He was joined in the seminar by members of the San Diego Sections of the Institute of Electrical and Electronic Engineers and the Instrument Society of America.

Among civic, medical and engineering profession leaders who attended were El Cajon Mayor Richard Brown; Dr. W. A. Shafer, neurosurgeon and engineer, General Dynamics Corporation; Dr. Ralph Coleman, neuropathologist, Camarillo State Hospital; Dr. James J. Norton, pathologist, El Cajon Valley Hospital and Bell-Herrick Laboratories, and Mr. Dean Franklin, Scripps Clinic and Research Foundation.

A demonstration of advanced technical instruments was conducted by representatives of Minneapolis-Honeywell and graphic illustrations of new trends in biomedical-electronic engineering were displayed.

Major emphasis by Grossmont College officials is being placed on the urgent need for training technicians capable of maintaining, operating, and repairing the complicated biomedical-electronic equipment and systems now being into hospitals.

Grossmont College is one of the first educational institutions to offer a program in biomedical engineering leading to an Associate in Science degree, according to C. Allen Paul, dean of Technical-Vocational Education.

"Advice of leaders in the medical and nursing professions, engineers and educators has been sought in planning the curriculum," Paul said. "The imediate objective will be the education and qualification of students as technicians, with accompanying academic work in electronics, mathematics, biology, chemistry, physiology and other fields to further increase their competency as a member of the medical and nursing team.

Paul said that enthusiastic response for the program has developed throughout the area from doctors, scientists, nurses, hosiptal administrators, civic leaders, and laymen acquainted with the growing engineering needs of medical establishments.

He listed major factors underlying the increasing demand for professionally trained technician in medical facilities:

a. the shortage of doctors and nurses
b. increase in patient load at all levels
c. certainty of increased demands on hospitals and nursing homes as U.S. increases Medicare benefits
d. need for better designed and more efficient medical facilities, to reduce nurse-to-patient and doctor-to-patient ratios
e. need to halt skyrocketing institutional costs

"We plan to train and educate technicians in biomedical electronics," Paul said.

Two years of actual training with the equipment will be accompanied by academic subjects designed to broaden the students familiarity with the fields of medicine and engineering.

"Each student will need on-the-job training and we are now discussing with representatives from technical societies and the medical profession on how best to arrange for some form of internship or on-the-job training."

Audience participation will be sought at the meeting, Paul said. Demonstrations of biomedical-electronic equipment and a question and answer period will be featured. Refreshments will be served to the more than 200 professionals and laymen expected at the meeting.

'The War Games' To Be Screened Tomorrow Night

Grossmont College will present the Academy Award winning documentary, "The War Game" tomorrow night at 8 p.m. in the Fine Arts Lecture Hall.

Filmed originally for presentation on British Boardcasting Company television the film includes clips of the real destruction of real cities in World War II, as well as simulated scenes of horror and terror in which nonprofessional actors take part.

The BBC never showed "The War Game." One explanation for their failure to present "The War Game" is that it is too terrifyingly realistic for family television.

The film is a scrupulous attempt to show what would happen to Britain in the event of a nuclear attack.

The images have the authentic quality of a newsreel and an impact more forceful than any book or lecture. The film's overall mood is panic. its indisputable message that there is no way to "prepare for" nuclear war, but there is no choice but to "prepare against" it.

'The War Game' is neither a pacifist document nor propaganada for better civil defense . . . the film is a work of truth.

The public is invited to see this extraordinary film. The price of admission is $1 with tickets available at the door only.

About a year ago in this column, I told of our efforts to put a halt to malicious and obscene calls. Today, I'm happy to report that the tide is turning in the battle against abusive telephone callers.

By working closely with police and local officials, giving many of our employees special training, and using a variety of new electronic devices, arrests and convictions have almost doubled in the past year.

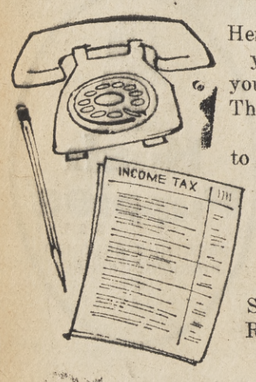

The best advice I can offer you should you ever receive such a call, is to hang up. This usually deprives the anoyance caller of the main thing he wants—an audience. However, should the calls continue, I encourage you to call our Business Office. We are located at 5500 Grossmont Center Dr.

With the increasing rise in convictions, the obscene and threatening caller is discovering that his chance of avoiding detection is growing slimmer every day.

Overheard at the movies:
"How far down do you want to sit?" asked the usher.
"All the way," answered the lady. "I am very tired."

Charges To Face Doctors In All-Star Basketball Action

Basketball may not be at it's' best, but you"ll have to travel great distances to hear better cheers.

Yells like: "Yeah white, yeah green. Hit the Chargers in the spleen." Or, "Come on doctors, score a pair. Give the Chargers Medicare."

The cheers, led by five lithesome nurses, will play a supporting role in the third annual charity basketball game between the San Diego Chargers and University Hospital "All Stars" at Petersen Gym, San Diego State tomorrow night.

Proceeds will go to the hospital's Medical Assistance League, which provides medical, prosthetic and transportation costs for medically indigent patients.

Led by Miss Judy Bailey, voted "Most Watchable Nurse", and wearing (would you believe?) tennis togs, the cheerleaders will include Mrs. Doris Ash, Mrs. Pat Albright, Miss Mable Brown and Miss Mona Oropeza.

The unique cheering section will be only one part of the "entertainment" planned during the basketball clash — entertainment which will include an impromptu "operation" and other medically-oriented skits.

The green-and-white clad medics will be coached this year, as in the two previous winning encounters, by Ralph Halla of Medical Social Services.

Members of the "All Stars" include Doctors Joe Devin, Earl Schultz, Roger Stoike, Bill Miller, Mark Doyne, Ira Levine, Larry Manning, Jim Chandler, John Belcher, Bob Giarrantano, Bob Jacobs, Steve Pauley and Nate Williams of the dialysis unit.

Bud Whitehead is serving as captain of the Charger team, with participants to include Speedy Duncan, Garry Garrison, Joe Beauchamp, Steve Newell, Bob Howard, Jim Tolbert and Jeff Staggs.

Donation is $1, with children under 12 admitted free. Tickets are on sale at all Highlander stores, in the hospital lobby or at the door.

Columnist To Run As Tax Collector

Business executive, James M. Hardison will be a candidate for the County Tax Collector seat.

Hardison, 38, who is in his 18th year as business administrator for General Dynamics Convair said he felt "there is a great need to introduce modern management methods within the tax collection functions which are in need of updated planning, organizing, and controlling."

He said "Over 99% of all taxpayers are punctual in their payments but their interests are not being served by the department's present delay in making deposits of funds.

Hardison, a management specialist in computer applications, said that "the demands of the County Tax Collector's job today requires new approaches as well as energetic leadership and realistic goals in solving tax collection problems.

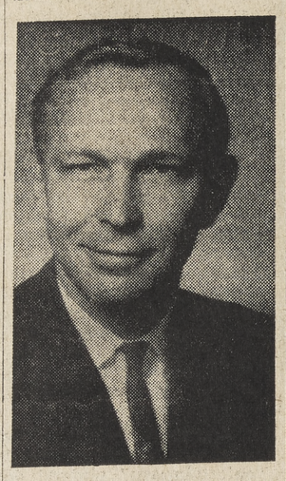

I feel that because of my experience I am closer to the immediate needs of electronic data processing methods which are so urgently required for the timely reporting, evaluating, and depositing of taxes."

Hardison said that a recent poll showed that an alarming number of people did not know who their County Tax Collector is. The poll also pointed out, according to Hardison, the great public concern that the Tax Collectors job is under committee study for the purpose of making it an appointive position.

"If the job becomes appointive, the public will be robbed of their voting rights, rights our young men are dying for in Vietnam today.

It would be cause for great concern if we were to lose or diminish the public's rights in free elections here at home for an office as vital as that of Tax Collector which is virtually the only function which can offer an effective balance check for equality of tax assessment, payment and collection."

Hardison has been active in civic, industrial, and public education activities and holds Kiwanis speaking awards, Boy Scout financial chairmanship, active membership in the National Management Association, and public school educator on Channel 8's T.V. Classroom. He is editor of the column "Hardison's Spanish" running weekly in this newspaper.

J. M. Hardison

As County Tax Collector, Hardison said that he would tackle the problems of delinquent taxes, improve the relationship between taxpayers and the colectors office, keep the public informed of tax collections, seek public support for sound tax collection policies, begin immediate application of electronic data processing methods to reduce cost of collections and eliminate loss of public funds through delayed deposits.

Hardison is a graduate of Christian Brothers College of Memphis, certified in Industrial Relations by the University of California at San Diego, and a recent graduate in Business Institutions from California Western University. He lives at 4904 Sparks ave. with his wife Elena and their two children.

Personal Property Tax To Be Eased This Year Supervisor Dent Tells Club

The wide-ranging problems of county government were discussed Friday at the Lemon Grove Men's Club by Supervisor Bob Dent.

Dent, who will seek re-election this year, touched on flood control, taxes, roads and welfare.

He said the demand made by residents of Brookside that County cover the drainage ditch could not be met. "There are no funds available for this project," he said. "County funds may be used on projects which are of general benefit to the county. The benefits here would be strictly local," he pointed out. Gasoline tax funds cannot be used for other than road construction and repair, he reminded. The Brookside ditch does not fit into this catagory. "The work in Brookside can be financed by a 1911 Improvement Act device, but Brookside residents would have to pay the bill," he said.

Dent was not warm to anti-poverty projects of state government. He said some of the programs are overstaffed and staffed by persons incapable of resolving poverty problems. County government could do it better and less expensively, Dent said.

He admitted the need for property tax relief and noted that some slight relief will be coming this year on personal property taxes. $8-$11 million will be deducted from county tax bills," he said. He admitted the relief would be small, but he said it was a step in the right direction — with more relief on the horizon.

The Men's club meets each Friday at noon at the Bowlero. Any male interested in community affairs is invited to attend, according to Cliff Clark, club president.

Beauty Contest Draws First Contestant

Chris Collier, 7811 Palm, Lemon Grove is the first person to file papers for the "Fairest of the Fair" contest which will take place in Lemon Grove on April 10.

The Mt. Miguel High School junior picked up her entry at this newspapers business office, 7834 Lester st. The contest is expected to draw more than 20 girls from Lemon Grove to compete for Miss Lemon Grove.

The winner of the contest will get a crack at the "Fairest of the Fair" title. She will reign over all activities at the Southern Calif. Exposition.

Application for the contest can be picked up at the Chamber of Commerce on Grove st., or at the Bank of America on Imperial.

Floats Sought For Parade For Old Time Days May 25

Local youth groups, clubs and adult organizations are urged to enter floats, marching groups or other activities in the Lemon Grove Old Time Days Parade, May 25, according to Al DeGroot, chairman of the event.

Entry blanks are available at the Lemon Grove Chamber of Commerce office. Groups may enter one or more types of display in the parade, but each requires an entry blank.

Floats are especially needed in this year's parade, stresses DeGroot. "We would prefer that thep emphasize the 'Old Time Days' theme, he explains, "but this can be anything from the old 'wild west' to the Roaring 20's."

He also stresses that individuals who might wish to enter antique cars, old buggies, etc., are most welcome. "We are inviting an antique car club to enter the parade," states DeGroot, "but this does not mean that individual car owners are not welcome."

Response to invitations to enter the parade will be discussed when the Old Time Days Association, Inc., holds its monthly meeting, Tuesday, March 26, at 7 p.m. in Topper's Steak House, Broadway, Lemon Grove. Representatives of local groups are very welcome to attend the meeting, according to Al Woods, chairman of the association.

Four Hikers Are Safe After Reported Lost

Thomas A. Herman, jr., 29, of 8855 Valencia st., Spring Valley, his two sons and a nephew were reported to be lost while hiking in the Anza-Borrego State Park over the weekend.

All four were found safe Monday after they had decided to camp out over the night. The sheriff's office received a report from the Herman home when the four failed to return home Sunday night.

The decision to camp overnight came when they had hiked about eight miles from the ranger station where they had parked. Herman felt that they would not make it back in the dark.

Rescue units had been dispatched to help locate the four hikers.

Good heart and health habits ingrained during childhood may, in later life, help delay, lessen or even prevent heart attack.

FBI Intensifies Search For Man

The FBI has announced that it is intensifying its search for Winfield Nairn Mac Queen, jr. who is wanted for the interstate transportation of stolen motor vehicles and stolen property. Federal warrants for his arrest have been issued in Memphis, Tennessee; San Antonio and Houston, Texas; and Chicago, Illinois.

Mac Queen — who is also known as R. A. Benson, Ray A. Benson, John Robert Bray, Walter A. Hansen, Norman Heyne, Will T. Hyde, W. Lawson, M. Lombardo, R. A. Meyers, Paul R. Pitzer, Paul Ray Pitzer, F. S. Sauers and H. Sauer — is alleged to have obtained 49 cars through fraud since 1960 by using bogus cashier's checks.

His alleged method of operation is to use a fraudulent check to buy a car from a person advertising his car for sale in the classified section of local newspapers. He then obtains a notarized bill of sale and the title and sells it to a private party or car dealer somewhere in the United States.

Mac Queen, a white American, was born November 12, 1905 in Chicago, Illinois. He is 5 feet 8 inches tall, weighs 160 pounds, has white hair and hazel eyes. He has an operation scar below his left shoulder blade, normally wears glasses, is a good dresser and an intelligent conversationalist.

Caution — Mac Queen should be considered dangerous. He allegedly has carried firearms in the past and may have suicidal tendencies.

If you have any information concerning the present whereabouts of Winfield Nairn Mac Queen, jr., you are requested to notify the nearest office of the FBI, the telephone number of which may be found on the first page of local directories.

ALAN ARKIN terroizes AUDREY HEPBURN in the new suspense-thriller from Warner Bros.-Seven Arts, "Wait Until Dark." The Technicolor drama, now showing at the Helix Theatre in La Mesa, tells the story of a frantic seach by three criminals, played by Arkin, Richard Crenna and Jack Weston, for a cache of smuggled narcotics. They believe that Miss Hepburn, who plays a blind housewife, is hiding the musical doll stuffed with heroin. The climatic battle is fought by the crazed Arkin and sightless Miss Hepburn in near total darkness.

Speaking before the Irrigation Districts Association of California at the St. Francis Hotel in San Francisco, California's senior Senator acknowledged that steps essential to cure our economic ills will force us "to shift other programs into second gear for the time being."

Senator Kuchel charged that efforts by California officials to get the U. S. Interior Department to complete planning for three California water projects "have been repeatedly frustrated by the Administration".

Kuchel said he would force the issue by introducing legislation to authorize the East Side Division, the Peripheral Canal Unit and the Kellog Unit of the Central Valley Project.

Social Security News

The Lemon Grove Review presents this question and answer column about the Social Security Program as a public service to our readers. The questions are those most frequently asked about Social Security. The answers are provided by Sumio Oto, El Cajon Social Security District Office Manager.

This is one of a series of columns about the Federal Medicare program published by the Lemon Grove Review as a public service to our readers. The questions are those most frequently asked about Medicare. They have been compiled by Mrs. Jean Orban, Area Professional Relations Representative of California Blue Shield. Blue Shield is the carrier which handles Part B (physician) Medicare Payments in most of California under contract with the Social Security Administration. The answers are provided by Sumio Oto, El Cajon Social Security Administration District Manager.

Q. I located some 1966 bills I did not submit to Medicare. Is it too late to do this?

A. No. March 31, 1968 is the deadline for some 1966 Medicare bills. This includes services dated from July 1, 1966 to September 30, 1966. Be sure to submit itemized bills. Use a separate Request for Payment form with each year's bills you submit.

Q. I will be 65 next month and plan to continue working for several years. I am in a health program at work. Am I eligible for Medicare even though I will not be receiving Social Security benefits? Also, do I need Medicare if I have group insurance?

A. You are eligible for Medicare whether you work or not and must apply for it in the three months before your birthday, the month of your birthdap, or three months after. If you miss this enrollment period, yoo must then wait until the enrollment is open again. There is an "open enrollment" period each year from January 1 through March 31. Most group policies automatically transfer "over 65" workers to a special plan which is based on your being in Medicare Parts A & B. The rate for such plans seems to be considerably less than the group plan itself.

Q. I have the Bennett Machine ($50 per month) and pay $2.50 for the tank stand I would like to switch to a Birdie Machine and wonder if I have to pay for the oxygen tank for either machine?

A. Medicare pays 80% of the rental costs and 80% of the oxygen since oxygen is necessary for the operation of the machine. Beginning this year, arrangements can be made for the purchase of durable medical equipment, which Medicare will pay for in monthly installments up to 80% of the cost of the equipment.

Dear Editor:

From time to time we write our friends of press, radio and television to thank them for helping us observe our long-standing Tradition of anonymity for members of Alcoholics Anonymous.

We note with gratitude that very few members indeed have been identified either by name or pictorially on the air or in print in recent years. And once again we ask your continuing cooperation in helping our members stay truly anonymous at the public level.

As you know, we welcome public interest in A.A. and are happy to provide any information we can. And while individual A.A.'s may disclose their membership to friends, employers and others as they themselves see fit, we stress anonymity at the level of press, radio and television for two major reasons. They are:

1. Despite increasing knowledge about the disease of alcoholism, problem drinkers still hestitate to seek help in A.A. if they have reason to believe that their anonymity may not be protected. Therefore, anonymity at the public level is our assurance to newcomers that their membership in A.A. will not be disclosed. nor will they ever be expected or required to disclose it. It will be up to them to tell those they think should know.

2. More importantly, in the long run, perhaps, the principle of personal anonymity helps discourage drives for power, profit and prestige which could divert us from our primary purpose: staying sober and helping other alcoholics achieve sobriety. Thus, anonymity at the public level assures us that no individual A.A. member will be publicly acknowledged as a spokesman or leader. Within our Traditions, members do not claim nor are they given credit for their sobriety. Nor do they use their membership for personal gain or self aggrandizement—to further their careers, promote their products or services, or to give weight to their arguments in public controversy.

Again, let us express our gratitude to all our friends in communications, to whom so many of us now sober owe our first knowledge of the A. A. program of recovery from alcoholism. If you would like any additional information about the Tradition of anonymity, or about the A.A. Fellowship itself, please let us know.

Sincerely,
(Name Withheld)

Dear Editor:

Heart Association volunteers and staff are still tallying results of the February Heart Fund campaign. "Not-at-home" envelopes, left for residents who were away on Heart Sunday, continue to arrive daily.

This high rate of return can be attributed in large part to excellent reporting, both of significant scientific developments on the national and international scene and of research and educational projects in this community.

The San Diego County Heart Association gratefully acknowledges your coverage, which increases public knowledge and interest in heart health, resulting in increased support of the Heart Fund and its programs.

Sincerely,
William J. Kuzman, M.D.

Dr. Sam Smith Is Bird Writer

A Lemon Grove physician-surgeon, Dr. Sam Smith, is author of an article in the current issue of THE BULLETIN.

THE BULLETIN is the publication of the San Diego County Medical Society.

Interestingly, the article is not about the care and treatment of patients, but about the nesting habits of a hummingbird.

Dr. Smith, associated with the Lemon Grove Medical Group, lives on Golden ave. His neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. William Vandenberg, were hosts to the hummingbird during her nesting period. (She (the hummingbird) made her nest in a starfish that is part of the net and shell decor of the Vandenberg patio.

The bird produced three eggs (a rarity, according to Dr. Smith).

Dr. Smith was able to get within 36 inches of the nesting bird to produce a picture which was used to illustrate his article. A pet cat and dog did not disturb the natural processes of the hummingbird, Dr. Smith said.

This year, in January, just a year after the first time the bird nested "indoors", she was back. This time she laid one egg.

Three and a half weeks are required from the egg laying process to the flight of the fledgling, Dr. Smith said.

Your Heart Fund contribution fights: Heart attack, stroke, high blood pressure, rheumatic fever and rheumatic heart disease and congenital heart disease.

Southern California First National Bank has retained its number one ranking among all banks headquartered in California outside the Federal Reserve cities of Los Angeles and San Francisco, according to "Pacific Banker and Business" magazine.

The ranking is based on total deposits. The San Diego-based bank on December 31, 1967 had $425,944,226 on deposit, an increase of 28 percent over year-end 1966.

Southern California First also was number on among non-reserve city banks in loans outstanding at year-end 1967, an increase of 31 percent which advanced the bank from its second place ranking in 1966.
